THE MUSLIM 100: THE LIVES, THOUGHTS AND ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE MOST INFLUENTIAL MUSLIMS IN HISTORY

Who are the Muslim world's most influential people? Where were they born? What were their ideas, thoughts and achievements? Why is it important for us to know more about Islamic thought, history, culture and civilisation? If you have been asking these and similar questions without receiving a proper answer, then this book is a must for you.

Among the personalities covered are: Caliph Umar, Imam Hussain, Abu Hanifah, Mimar Sinan, M.A. Jinnah, Ataturk, Sir Muhammad Iqbal, Abul A'la Mawdudi and Malcolm X.

MUHAMMAD MOJLUM KHAN was born in 1973 in Habigong, Bangladesh and was brought up and educated in England. He studied classical Arabic and traditional Islamic sciences at a dar al-uloom (Islamic seminary), and was awarded a Degree in Business and Social Policy from the University of East Anglia. A former president of a university Islamic society and executive member of Federation of Students' Islamic Societies in UK and Eire (FOSIS), the author is a literary critic, prolific writer and a researcher in Islamic thought and history. He has published more than 100 essays and articles on Islam, comparative religion, contemporary thought and current affairs, and has been a regular contributor to the leading British Muslim newspaper The Muslim News since he was nineteen. A recipient of one international and two national prizes for his essays on Islam, the author is an Imam to Her Majesty's Prison Service and a regular contributor and commentator on BBC Radio. He lives in East Anglia with his wife and two young sons.
